VOL. XXXIII { NUMBER ... 305} CITIZENS' LEAGUE FOR THIS CITY

An Organization that Exper Enroll Two Thousand Voter Once Is Formed.

MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE

One Object of the League is to Make the Records of Candidates Known to Voters

Indianapolis is to have a Citizens League similar in purpose and method of operation to the Municipal Voters' eague, of Chicago. Several prominent citizens have for some time been thinking bout the necessity of such an organiza and planning the best method of protion and pinning tile oest installed a pro-cedure. The result is a formal announce-ment to-day by a self-constituted com-mittee of seven men—Thomas C. Day, William Fortune, the Rev. Francis Henry avisk, Theodore E. Griffith, George Ed Hunt, Augustus L. Mason and Luius B. Swift.
This executive committee, as a result of the announcement in The News, tonying membership coupon, expects to panying membership coupon, especial control about 2,000 voters at once. The shrollment will be increased by the mailing of circulars and the personal work of the executive committee and others who may become interested.

The purpose of the league for the present is to furnish to the voters full and accurate information in regard to nom-inees for elective offices, so that one need not through ignorance vote for an unfit nan. The league expects to go no further than this except that where a notoriously

The Announcement. The following announcement issued by he executive committee is self-explana-

An organization has been effected to be known as the Citizens' League of Indian-apolis, and the following statement is made on behalf of this organization. The

That city, township and county affairs sence city, township and county affairs should be administered in the interests of the people and by the best available men, irrespective of their party affiliations.

offices to be held by men who will deal justly with all and grant special favors That the efficiency of laws as, for instance, the city charter and the county and township reform laws, depends, after all, on the men who administer them. That the voter desirous of seeing offices filled by capable men has no choice but to vote for candidates presented by party managers. In many cases these are not the best that can be obtained. There are many voters in Marion county who desire a better local government, but who have had no medium through which their desires could find expression. The eague has been organized to afford these League has the following recommendations of the league, nor do we expect to form another party. We simply desire that all voters who believe in securing the services of the best available men for office holders shall signify that they sympathize with our principles and losses for those are our principles and losses. There are enough voters in the poses. There are enough voters in the esslike administration of city affairs to arry any election, but they are unorganized and have no means of learning the truth about candidates.

Four Thousand Independents.

"At the last election Mr. Overstreet se-cured over 4,000 plurality and Mr. Ensley 102. That indicates that there are nearly 4,000 voters in one party alone who did no vote a straight ticket. It is probable that nearly all of those men voted for candi-dates for many of the offices without the slightest knowledge of their previous rec-ord or ability to fill the office. A Republican voter, when he reaches a place on the ballot where both candidates are unknown to him, will probably vote for the Republican candidate in faith, and the same in true of a Demograt. But the man who is willing to scratch would not vote for a bad Republican if he knew that a good Democrat was also a candidate for that office, and it is to that class of voters

ords of every candidate so that voters may be informed regarding them. In case they have never held public office, their ccupation and other details on which an estimate of their ability might be based will be published. With this record before the voter a choice of candidates can be made with intelligence.

She was Knocked Down.

In one of his hands he held a small stick of stove wood and with this he dealt Mrs. Titsworth a stunning blow on the head behind the left ear, just as she turned to run. The blow knocked the woman down, but she retained her senses for a few minutes, and during the struggle that followed the man forced the neck of a small bottle between her line.

gle that followed the man forced the neck of a small bottle between her lips.

Mrs. Titsworth struggled desperately, but she was overpowered and sank into a semi-conscious state. Her screams had been heard by Mr. Gifford, who was then dressing in his room. He ran down to the shed and found the door barred. He threw his weight against it several times, and when it flew open he saw the woman lying on the floor with her dress torn and disarranged. A back door to the shed stood open. The man was gone. There was every evidence of the desperate struggle which Mrs. Titsworth had experienced.

The bottle containing poison was broken on the floor. The woman was carried into the house and Dr. T. L. Thompson was called. There was a strong odor of creosote on the woman's breath.

The physician used a stomach pump and Mrs. Titsworth soon revived sufficiently to tell her terrible experience. Dr. Thompson examined what little was left of the contents of the bottle and as near the could studge without a chemical

WILL NOT RECOGNIZE UNION.

Meaning of Latest Stand Taken by the Operators.

CHICAGO, November 27.—W. E. Curtis, telegraphing from Washington to the Record-Herald says: Stripped of all the ifs and ands, the situation of the ceal strike is that the operators will not recognize the miners' union and Mitchell will not allow the differences to be settled on any other basis. One side is just as stubborn as the other. All the other concessions are the minery union and Mitchell will not recognize the minery union and Mitchell will not allow the differences to be settled on any other basis.
